Most sentences include kanji as well as hiragana. Japanese dictionaries list around 10,000 kanji. The Japanese government limited the kanji used in official publications to the 1945 touyou kanji with about 4000 readings. The Japanese Language Proficiency Test (JLPT) is based on these 1945 touyou kanji.

The more your kanji writing practice includes these four things, the better you'll be able to remember the kanji when you need them most. Like on tests. Or when you're writing that email to your new boss. So let's start with some kanji writing practice that covers these four basic bases!

A Kanji Writing Practice Strategy That Really Works

I asked a Japanese friend and she recommended it. I created a PDF of the kyouiku kanji practice sheets and had them printed and bound at Kinkos for like $40. Best decision ever. The worksheets are great and easy to use. As someone who has tried many kinds of excel and word tables of self made kanji, this is way better for just getting practice.
