The Star Thrower from The Unexpected Universe, by Loren Eiseley PART I I have caught a glimpse of what man may be, along an endless wave-beaten coast at dawn. It began on the beaches of Costabel. I was an inhumanly stripped skeleton without voice, without hope, wandering alone upon the shores of the world.

The Star Thrower is a posthumous collection of Eiseley's work. Somewhere around a third of the way through the book I considered giving it up. Eiseley may have been an outstanding scientist, naturalist, a modern contemplative - many call him "a modern Thoreau" - and the first part of the book bored me.
